Cooking and Courting.

Dear Ned, no doubt you'll be surprised
When you receive and read this letter!
Pve railed against the married state.
But their, you see, I know a
Limet a levely girl out hore;
Rer manner is—well—very widning;

I'll tell you all from the beginning. I went to sak her out to ride
Last Wednesdoy—it was perfect weather
She said she couldn't possibly;

The servants had gone off together
(Hiberaians always rush away)
At consins' funerale to be looking)
Pics must be made, and she must stay, She said, to do that branch of cooking.

Oh, let me help you," then I eried; 'T'll be a cooker, too, how jelly !" She laughed and answered with a sm " All right; but you'll repent your folly, For I shall be a tyrant, sir,
And good hard work you'll have to grap ple; So sit down there and don't you stir, But take this knife and pare that apple." She rolled her sleeve above her arm-

A Man who Would have His Gal.

From an old Carolina periodical we clip an anecdote that happily illustrates the customs of the period when physical force was the tribunal before which all questions were brought for arbitrament, In one of the upper counties of North Carelina, a young fellow by the name of Ben Sykes had courted a fair one for some years, but either was not ready or not willing-for he never came to the point. At last she got mad, and declared she would marry Bill Patterson if he ever courted her again. Bill, hearing of this, went again. Bill, hearing of this, went and once more put in his claim; stant agitation, mixing and ming but he was a scurvy fellow in some ling of the waters of the ocean, but he was a scurvy fellow in some things, and neither dad nor mam must also equalize their tempera was willing. PLANTATION BITTERS

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits. Wherever it is introduced it becomes a standard article---a medicinal staple. It is to-day the best and purest tonic, and the most popular medicine in the civilized world-be sure and get the genuine. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Country Stores.
